The Ohio State University Creative Writing Program presents the first annual

Young Writers Workshop

July 12-July 17, 2009

fiction poetry nonfiction

The OSU Creative Writing Program will award up to 30 scholarships to high school students in Columbus City Schools to participate in a week-long residential summer workshop on campus.

Students will attend daily workshops and courses designed for their genre of interest, and will be invited to participate in open mic sessions each evening. OSU faculty and graduate students will mentor workshop participants and assist them with polishing their writing skills. The program will conclude with a capstone event honoring the students, their families, and friends of the workshop.

Applications are available in English classes and on the OSU Creative Writing web site. Participation in the workshop is limited to students of current sophomore and junior ranking.

Application deadline: January 23, 2009
